

To form a partnership with the National Trust: A hotelier should contact the Commercial Partnerships or Corporate Partnerships department. This department typically handles collaborations with businesses, including hotels, to create mutually beneficial relationships that align with the National Trust's objectives.

Here's how you can proceed: Information for this department is often available under the "Contact Us" section on the National Trust website, or you may find details in the Marketing or Media relations sections.

Hospitality and Events Team

For partnerships that involve hosting events, weddings, or other special experiences at National Trust properties, the Hospitality and Events team is the right contact. They manage venue hire and event collaborations.

Contact: You can find contact details under sections like "Venue Hire" or "Weddings and Events" on the National Trust's site.

Reaching out to the appropriate department with a clear proposal or inquiry will help initiate a productive conversation about potential partnership opportunities.
